

Greetings from Wisconsin. We have a great No Call List program here and we don't want to see federal law or regulations that diminish its impact.

It is important to me that my rights be respected by companies and that I not receive unsolicited product offers in my home. When I am ready to purchase something, I am perfectly capable of finding providers and comparison shopping. Prior to the NO CALL restrictions going into effect, calls from telemarketers were intrusive, annoying, and a waste of their time. I do not purchase anything over the phone, so the NO CALL LIST is doing them a favor by eliminating me from their list.

Thanks,
